LATEST FROM THE FRONT.

Particulars of the Flag of Truce-Burial of the Dead in Front of Petersburg-The Rebels Claim 1,100 Prisoners-Rumors of a Rebel Movement on our Left.

Information has been received here from Grant's headquarters that a flag of truce was allowed on Monday morning from 5 to 9 o'clock to bury the dead and bring off the wounded. Those of the wounded who were alive the previous day died during the night, and not more than a dozen were brought off, few of whom are expected to live.

In front of the crater for the distance of 200 yards the ground was literally covered with dead-180 colored and 45 white were counted and buried on the spot.

The large number of colored troops killed is owing to the fact that after the white troops had charged across the gap, the enemy's guns opened a raking fire on the colored troops, mowing them down with canister.

The work of burying the dead was not completed until 10%, when the truce ceased and the rebels in a few minutes opened fire.

Generals Bushrod Johnson, A. P. Hill, Mahone and Sanders were on the field, with a number of inferior officers. Major Gerardy. of Mahone's staff, had charge of the flag on the rebel side, and Major James E. Doran, 22d New York, (dismounted) cavalry had charge on our side.

The enemy buried their dead on their side of the line, and carried their wounded to the rear. They claim to have 1,200 prisoners, including wounded. They state their loss at about 800, but this is not credited, as in charging to recover their works they lost heavily.

General Bartlett and Colonel Marshall are prisoners in Petersburg, unhurt. It was rumored Monday that a force of rebel cavalry was moving towards our left, but nothing has transpired as yet in that quarter. Some of the telegraph operators in Burnside's corps have been arrested, charged with divulging the contents of despatches, and they are to be held for trial by court martial.

The Rebels at Hagerstown-They Burn a Train of Cars containing Government Property, and do Other Damage-They Recross the River to Virginia—Early at Martinsburg with 35,000 Men.

[Special Correspondence Washington Evening Star. FREDERICK, MD., August 2, 1864 .- Editor Star:

I arrived here last night on my way to Hagerstown, but have been unable to reach that place, as no stages have been running for three days. An attempt will be made to-day, however, to get the stage through. The rebels, to the number of three hundred cavalry, paid Hagerstown a visit again last Friday, about 3 o'clock p. m., and, after a skirmish in the streets of the town with Cole's cavalry, took possession of the town and remained until dark. They burned a train of cars containing Government stores and some freight belonging to A. N. Hager and Zeigler &

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF WASHING TON.

The new building on 15th street, opposite the State Department, erected to accommodate the First National Bank of Washington and the Banking House of Jay Cooke & Co., is now completed, and attracts general admiration.

Externally it pleases the most fastidious eye by the chaste beauty of its design; and internally the cultivated taste and the sense of fitness is gratified equally by the rich elegance of the furniture and decorations, and the admirable arrangements of the rooms, by which the comfort and convenience of both the customers and employees of the establishment are provided for after a style never before attempted, we believe, in a banking institution.

Not only has Washington nothing else approaching it, but we doubt if any of our leading commercial cities-New York, even,-can show any similar structure combining so many of the requisites for a first-class bank building. It is of the Italian style of architecture, the front being two stories in height and executed in marble from the Lee quarries in Massachusetts-the same used in the construction of the Capitol Extension.

The front is 40 feet 8 inches in width by 51 feet high. The doors and windows in the lower story are rusticated, and the windows in the second story finished with architraves and pediment heads supported by consols. The first story, extending to a depth of 100 feet, is used by Messrs. Jay Cooke & Co. for their banking business. The spacious main banking room, entered directly from the street, is floored with marble tiles, and is superbly fitted up with white marble counters and solid walnut furniture.

Beyond this, on the same floor, is the hand some apariment for the general transaction of business by the members of the firm; and in communication with this room is another pleasantly situated and tastefully furnished, for the use of the customers of the banking-house. The conveniently arranged stationery-room wash-room, water-closet, &c., also attract attention on this floor, as do the various private offices, arranged in convenient connection to afford facilities for the transaction of business without friction or confusion, and with due economy of time.

The second story, approached from 15th street by a fine flight of marble steps, is occupied by the First National Bank of Washington,-the main portion being used for the general transaction of business, and convenient sized rooms being allotted for the use of the

This story, 22 feet in height, is fitted up with the same conveniences and in the same handsome manner and substantial style as the story

This is the first instance here in which a bank has been located on the second floor, but in leading commercial cities—in Boston altogeth-er so—the leading banks are thus located. The throng of customers doing business at the new bank find their comfort and convenience so amply provided for that in their opinion the arrangement of the building could not well be improved in any sense.
The building is fire proof throughout, and the money vaults, proofs, &c., for books and papers both of bank and banking house are of the most fire and burglar defying description imaginable. Richmond itself is not so hard to penetrate as the strong boxes of this institution, one would think after a due examination of the most of the most of the strong boxes and six deministration. ination of its walls, wards, locks and six-deep panoply of safe-guards. We must not omit to notice the good taste which has in the erection of the building combined the rich dark shades of the walnut with the pale marble, the latter having rather a ghostly tomb stony effect when used solely as a building material unrelieved by darker ornamentation, as shown by different marble edifices about town. The architect is John McArthur of Philadelphia, builder John Rice. The Banking House of Jay Cooke & Co., is too well established in public favor to need any fresh mention at our hands, and we may indeed say the same of the First National Bank as from the confidence felt in it and its officers, it has from the day of its opening taken the first place in the esteem and favor of the communi-

THE EXCITEMENT AT HARRISBURG. A Vigilance Committee at Work-Removal of General Couch Demanded. ALTOONA, PA., August 2.-General Simon Cameron, on behalf of the Vigilance Committee of Harrisburg, has addressed President Lincoln a letter, asking for the removal of General Couch, and the appointment of General Cadwallader to the position of commander of this department.

The excitement along the line of the railroad against General Couch is intense. It is almost certain that that the rebel heel no longer presses our soil.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company still have their trusty scouts at the front. They report "nothing."

THE REBEL GEN. EARLY AND HIS FORCES. The following information is derived from an officer who deserted Early's army yesterday morning, and came into our lines :

The rebel cavalry force now operating in the Valley and up river numbers eight thousand effective men. They have all been remounted and equipped recently, and are under the command of those daring villains, Brad. T. Johnson and McCausland.

The infantry forces are under Early, who says he is determined to hold the Valley at all hazards. His forces in the Velley are engaged in thrashing the wheat, and he retains every tenth bushel; also, levying a tax for the labor performed in securing the crop. Early's forces number between thirty-five and forty thousand men, this rebel officer states.

MAJOR HARRY GILMORE.

The rebel Major Harry Gilmore, who was reported killed at Chambersburg, is alive and well, and was at Shepherdstown yesterday morning, with a small detachment of his com-MILITARY EXECUTION.

William H. Carter, a citizen of Maryland, having been found guilty by a military commission held in this city of violating the laws of war, and of being a spy, will be hung on Friday next, in the enclosure attached to the Old Capitol prison, the President of the United States having approved the sentence of the commission, which directed that Carter should be hung by the neck until dead.

It was shown in evidence before the commission that Carter entered into arrangements with the so-called Confederate government whereby he agreed to furnish the Confederate States bacon at places on the south side of the Rappahannock river, and within the lines of the enemy, agreeing to receive therefor forty cents per pound for said bacon, payable in Confederate treasury notes, or in tobacco at the market price thereof; and he further agreed to deliver as large a quantity of bacon as he possibly could at the prices aforesaid, which said agreement was approved by the Secretary of War of said Confederacy, and under his direction accepted by the commissary of said so-called Confederate States. It was also shown that Carter did enter into armies of the United States into the enemy's lines, provisions and other goods contraband of war, thereby giving aid, comfort and assistance to the enemy; this between Baltimore and in the States of Maryland and Virginia. Carter also, on or about the 5th day of Sep. tember, 1863, received from Surgeon General S. V. Moore, of the Confederate States, a list of medical supplies, which he procured and attempted to convey in the enemy's lines, but was arrested by the military authorities while in the act of so doing.

The carrying out of the sentence of the com mission has been entrusted to Provost Marshal Ingraham, and the execution, which will be a private one, will take place in the inclosure of the Old Capitol Prison, where the scaffold is now being erected.

About one hour afterwards a force of 35 of the same gang passed the same locality. They had nothing with them, but did not get off so safely as did the gang under Moseby's command, for they could not altogether avoid our cavairy. who are scouting in the neighborhood, and a skirmish ensued and four of the guerrillas were killed. The rest galloped off our cavalry (about 34) in pursuit.

LOCAL NEWS.

CAPT. LUM COOPER REDIVIVUS .- As stated in our first edition of to-day, Capt. C. C. Edelin, (better known as Lum Cooper,) of the 1st Maryland rebel infantry, arrived in the city this morning, and was escorted to the Provost Marshal's office by a lieutenant, he having come within our lines yesterday morning at Dam No. 4, and surrendered himself to the military authorities.

Lum gives as a reason for surrendering himself, that he is sick and broken down from wounds, and that he is tired of the war and anxious to see his family, who reside in this city. Lum may be sick and broken down, as he alleges, but his appearance does not indicate it. In fact, we thought he was looking remarkably well-for him.
While at the Provost Marshal's office this morning he was dressed in a rebel captain's full uniform, and bore his usual consequential air. Lum is still inclined to brag, and says that nis celebrated horse "Black Warrior" was killed in an engagement with our forces, having received one hundred and forty bullets (!) his (Lum's) clothes being perforated at the same time, one ball taking effect in his body. While in the Confederate service, Lum says he fought us like h-ll, and that he has be wounded no less than eight times. He claims that the Confederate authorities were so well pleased with his fighting qualities that they wanted to promote him, but he declined the honor. He speaks highly of his own company, and says that it was composed of the best fighting material. Cooper alleges that he tendered his resignation to the rebel Secretary of War. The Secretary refused, however, to accept it, when he informed his commanding officer that he was sick and tired, and wished to go home, which he would do at all hazards. Being a determined man, (to use Lum's words,) he kept his promise. Lum is still at Col. Wisewell's office, under-the oath, and wishes to remain in Washington. but is rather fearful of being lionized by his numerous friends, who he says will be running after him all the time. Since writing the above Lum has been committed to the Old Capitol to await further AFFAIRS IN GEORGETOWN,-The extreme heat of the day had much to do with the appa" rent lack of active business up the streets yesterday. A soldier whose name was not ascertained, was sun struck but was not so severely affected as to cause him to go to his quarters. About 4 o'clock, p m. he was suddenly deranged, and acted so like a dangerous maniac that patroiman Cunningham thought it best to secure him for fear he might do injury to himself or others. He was secured with considerable difficulty and delivered to the military to be properly cared for. About 6 o'clock the sky was everclouded and a slight sprinkle of rain accompanied by thunder and lightning cooled the air, and this morning a delightful breeze is enjoyed by the residents of the town.
